Daisy's Lullaby

A Tribute Song

Intro - acoustic guitar, piano

Verse 1

The first time I saw you, a bundle of joy,
Barking and jumping, my sweet little friend.
You'd greet me at the door, my heart you'd employ,
With love in your eyes that would never end.
You'd cuddle up close, a soft, furry hug,
A feeling of comfort, I'll always recall.
My loyal companion, as snug as a rug,
You gave me your heart, you gave me your all.

Chorus

Oh, Daisy, my Daisy, my sweet daisy girl,
Fourteen years we shared, a beautiful dream.
You filled every moment, you brightened my world,
A love everlasting, a shimmering gleam.

Verse 2

Each morning we'd wake, with a gentle soft sigh,
Stretching together, as the new day would dawn.
Those cuddles in bed, beneath sleepy sky,
Your sweet little kisses from dusk until morn.
A steady warm presence, a comforting grace,
Your funny small quirks made me smile every day.
You filled every corner, in time and in space,
And chased all the shadows and worries away.

Chorus

Oh, Daisy, my Daisy, my sweet daisy girl,
Fourteen years we shared, a beautiful dream.
You filled every moment, you brightened my world,
A love everlasting, a shimmering gleam.

Daisy's Lullaby (continued)

My Daisy girl, tell me, where have you gone?
The house feels so empty, the days are so long.
I'm standing right here, and I feel so alone,
You were the best part of coming back home.
Help me to heal, I hope you're okay,
My heart aches without you, each passing new day.
I miss you, my Daisy, my shadow, my friend,
A love that I know will just never end.

Bridge

I love you to the moon and back, my baby, it's true,
My heart is just breaking, without you right here.
I love you, my Daisy, in everything I do,
I whisper your name, though you're no longer near.

Instrumental - piano, strings

Final Chorus

Oh, Daisy, my Daisy, my sweet daisy girl,
Fourteen years we shared, a beautiful dream.
You filled every moment, you brightened my world,
A love everlasting, a shimmering gleam.

Outro

Now you're free of pain, no more sorrow or strife,
Running so gently, beneath heavens above.
Though I feel your absence, I celebrate life,
And rest in the solace of your endless love.

Outro - guitar fade
